Goering Cheats Noose with Cyanide

No. 2 Nazi Cheats Gallows; Swallows Cyanide to End Life

Only eight correspondents permitted to enter the brightly lighted gymnasium in the jail yard where the gallows stood, said Sey-In-Quart's body still was hanging from the noose when officers ordered the flames covering Goering's body removed.

The former reichsmarshal and his wife were seen by the British commandant in black pajamas and a black hood. Smith said his face bore an agonized expression and that his hair was matted.

When the last body had been cut down, Col. R. C. Andrus of the United States army, prison commandant, emerged with the first news to the world that Goering had taken his own life.

"Goering was not hanged," Col. Andrus announced. "He committed suicide at 10:45 p.m. Wednesday (12:45 p.m. Tuesday Edmonton time) by taking cyanide of potassium."

He was discovered at once by the sentinels who watched and heard him make an odd noise and twitch. The sentinels called the doctor and chaplain who were in the corridor and who found him dying.

There were pieces of glass in his mouth and an odor of cyanide potassium on his breath.

Goering's hands and feet were bound in the gallows and he was not observed to go to his mouth. An investigation is now going on to learn how he could conceal his prison when he was subject to daily and rigorous searches, both of his clothes and his person.

The gallows was contained in a small cage similar to those found before on other Nazis and like the one found on him a year ago last May at Mondorf prison.

French correspondent Louis de Roche said in his account that an opened envelope was found on Goering's corpse. It contained three messages written in pencil, one of which was addressed to Col. Andrus.

Contained in Vial The poison Goering took was contained in a vial concealed inside a copper tape made of an old cartridge shortly before his condition was noticed by his guard. It was observed that he was lying quietly, apparently asleep, with his hands under the bed cover. One foot was circled under the bed and held the poison tube in it.

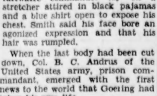

Goering never heard his death sentence read to him and died shortly before they died. Col. Andrus was on his way to Goering's cell when the last act of Goering's life was taking place.

A while later the march to the gallows began.

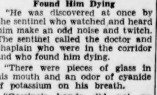

In the gymnasium, where only last Saturday evening had played a basketball game, stood three scaffolds, each with two nooses and a gallows. Arthur Gaeth, representing the combined American media, said each scaffold had the customary 13 steps to the top and each rope the customary 13 coils.

Conducted with Precision The executions were carried out with machine-like precision. While one man hung from one gallows, his body concealed inside the structure of the scaffold, another man was brought in.

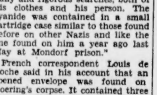

Every one of the 10 men approached death bravely once he was inside the room and saw the grim apparatuses of the hangmen. Some

Canada Enjoying Bumper Harvest

The 14 condemned men, once the arrogant rulers of most of continental Europe and part of Africa, quietly ate their final supper at 5:30 p.m. It was a frugal meal of cooked potatoes, coffee and bread.

No Special Requests None made any special requests, prison authorities said. Field Marshal Kietel, precise and efficient to the end, asked the guards to give him some notice before leading him to the gallows, so that he could "straighten up the cell and leave it neat."

No newspaper photographers were allowed to photograph the hangings. An official photographer made pictures for the official record.

Suicide of Goering Creates New Mystery By G. B. Hedenfeldt, (AP)—Actor to the last, Hermann Goering by cheating the guillotine in the closing minutes of the last act created a breath-taking new mystery.

How the once-time reichsmarshal and Luftwaffe boss managed to conceal a vital of poison for 1 1/2 years, or alternatively, who smuggled it to him in a closely guarded and watched jail cell, were questions which had the intelligence officers of four countries hard at work.

Fast-Working Police Here are the facts available for professional and amateur detectives alike: Potassium cyanide crystals were carried by the top Nazis at the end of the war in the United States.

Each of the Nazis had a capsule in his teeth after his capture by the British army in May 1945.

A capsule was found on Goering after his capture. He was taken away and since then Goering's prison life has been a mystery. He has been searched at least 100 times.

All during the 10-month-long trial a guard stood within three feet of the reichsmarshal in the courtroom and he never was allowed to pass anything to his lawyers except through the guard. He was guarded by two soldiers every foot of the way to and from the court room.

In the prison a guard stood outside his cell peering in 24 hours a day. The light was always on, night and day. Goering was not allowed to sleep with his face to the wall. He had to keep his hands outside the covers when the guard always could see them.

When his wife and daughter visited him, they were allowed a table and a screen with a guard looking on at each end. The Nazis prisoners never were left alone.

The prison commandant, Col. B. C. Andrus, boasted time and time again that "suicide was impossible in the Nuremberg jail."

But Goering did it. How? Executions Continued Less Than Two Hours NUREMBERG, (Reuters)—I saw 10 of Hitler's lieutenants die on the gallows. Wednesday, for criminal against humanity and against peace. It was all over in less than two hours.

The world of all the swish of the cord around their necks after the black hood had hidden their faces, followed by a pause of seconds which seemed minutes. Then came the jolt. The body of the man was sprung and the body fell.

The Nazi leaders died bravely. Not one bled or screamed. I covered the executions as one of the eight Allied newspapermen, chosen by lot, for criminal against humanity. Britain, the United States, France, the Soviet Union had two news representatives.

Had Chance to Speak Each of the Nazis had a chance to say a last word before they were taken to the gallows.

Only Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi party philosopher, could find no word to say. He was taken away and since then Goering's prison life has been a mystery. He has been searched at least 100 times.

between east and west will come about 10 years for the world's population. Kietel and Jodi died as Prussian officers to the last, Kietel announced, "I follow my own. All for Germany."

Seven men were sent to their death in an impetuous and furious way. They were held steady by two guards all the time, their hands were tied behind their backs with bootlaces and their feet strapped with an American army webbed belt.

The seconds of absolute silence after the men dropped through the trap were sharply broken each time by the shuffling of feet as we moved in relaxed tension.

The soldiers and hangmen got busy preparing for the next execution. Some of the specialists talked in low tones. Others hid cigarettes and hastily extinguished them when the next man to die was heralded by two knocks on the creaky unpainted door of the gymnasium.

With the last man, Sey-In-Quart had died, Col. Burton C. Andrus, the American army governor of the prison told us—the eight reporters—"Okay, you can go back now."

Single Paragraph Tells Russians of Hangings MOSCOW, (AP)—The government newspaper Pravda published Wednesday a single paragraph story saying the execution information service in Nuremberg had announced the suicide of Hermann Goering and the hanging of his 10 condemned fellow Nazis.

No accounts of the executions by the two Soviet correspondents permitted to witness the hangings have yet appeared.

No "Softness" This Time

If there is any serious likelihood that Herr Goering and his followers might be posed in Germany as victims of Allied lust for vengeance, the outside world has heard nothing of it. On the contrary, German authorities are showing willingness to round up the three who escaped at Nuremberg and jail them, together with a wide assortment of Hitler's cronies, in the name of justice.

When the verdicts of the Nuremberg court were made public, there were some suggestions in Allied countries that execution of these architects of evil might make them martyrs in German eyes, and thus sow the seeds of revenge. This counsel of timidity failed to stir any wide appreciation. It was too patently a plea for humanitarianism in Nazi cowardice. Or a plea originating with Nazi sympathizers.

Victory imposed upon the Allied nations the responsibility of deciding what kind of a world we are going to live in and bequeath to our successors. If it is to be a world of freedom, justice and peace, there can be no room in it for political leaders of the stamp of these men. That decision has to be made now, and proclaimed in action, not words only. It could only be made by the victors by imposing the extreme penalty upon these directors of international crime unlimited.

It is improbable that the punishment of these villains will be a plea for leniency upon German thought and conduct, other than as a warning that the cruelties they preached and practised belong to an age that has passed and will not return. They resented and directed a deliberate attempt to crush civilization and replace it by barbarism. There could be no right thinking about them but that they should perish in the collapse of their plans to thrust mankind back into the era of savagery.

At the close of World War I the Allies did not "hang the Kaiser" nor any of the advisers who had egged him on to aggression and wholesale slaughter. The practice they showed was misconstrued. It was taken to mean that the democracies had grown soft, so soft that they would not punish those who plotted the greatest destruction and attacked them with that intent.

To have shown mercy to Goering and his associates now could only confirm that belief in Germany that the Allies intended to make this a world of freedom, justice and security—and have the courage to carry out that purpose.

War Memorials

There appears to be a general tendency across Canada, tacitly encouraged by the federal government, to foster the practice of commemorating war service and war sacrifice in bronze and stone.

In conformity with this prevalent viewpoint is the decision of Winnipeg to erect a Memorial Recreation Centre which will be dedicated to "those who fought for human liberties and paid the supreme sacrifice". The project, which has attracted the active support of the city council, has wide support among community organizations and Manitoba branches of the Canadian Legion.

Specifically, the proposal is to build a useful community structure which can be used, not only as an all-round stadium with facilities for sports and recreation, but also as an industrial, agricultural and recreational exhibition. The inclusion of accommodation for arts and handicrafts has also been strongly urged.

It is pointed out that the memorial centre should not overshadow the community centre which have grown up in Winnipeg but should be a meeting place and a coordinating place for the work done by the smaller centres.

While Winnipeg's project is one concrete instance of the form taken by the new idea in memorials it does not necessarily furnish a classic and unalterable example. The plan is capable of infinite variety and adjustment and adaptation.

Here in Edmonton, for instance, it would work in well with the plans of the Recreation Commission and the program of more specialized work, of the Allied Arts Council which is already converting its useful war-time functions into a no less useful peacetime purpose.

A memorial recreation centre in Edmonton, affording full accommodation for both athletic and cultural projects, would not only commemorate in a very splendid way the sacrifices of those who fought, but contribute to that wholesome and complete way of life which is to postulate and eventually to abolish war.

Lucky Canadians.

The Government at Washington had to give way to the claims of the producers of the price ceiling on meat. That is, that the ceiling means, in face of the President's conviction that it should have been maintained.

Whether the clamor was inspired mainly by politicians, trusts or stock-brokers does not matter. It was a forceful argument, backed by the notorious scarcity of meat in shops and the alleged abundance in pack markets—for those who could afford to pay more than the legal price.

The effect of the clamor for removal of the upward movement of prices in the regular trade. How fast they will move and how far up, is speculation. That they may run wild for a time is not denied by decontrol advocates.

But the de-controlers argue that this rather desperate remedy will cure the evils of black-marketing, at least in time of scarcity. The regular dealer, they say, will recapture the trade now that he is able to mark up prices and carry a full stock, which will put the boot-legger out of business. And since cattle are plentiful, they will head for the packing plants in larger numbers under the indulgent season of prices.

This has been the argument for decontrol. Nobody suggests that prices will start sagging or supplies increase sufficiently until the Christmas season is passed.

Meanwhile people with small and moderate incomes must find meat harder to get. The well-to-do have been able to get all they wanted from the illegitimate dealers, but will supposedly transfer their custom back to the family butcher as he stocks up again.

Without flattering themselves, Canadians may take satisfaction in noting that they have escaped the unhappy experience of their neighbors in respect to the meat supply. They have, and have had, ample supplies and a fair range of choice. Prices have gone up, but not in comparison to the fantastic advance beyond normal. Black-marketing has not captured the market here, nor threatened the business of the law-abiding dealer.

Wherever the credit belongs, we have undoubtedly handled the meat problem more satisfactorily than it has been handled in the United States. This is the very emphatic testimony of many thousands of Americans who have spent months or years in Canada in wartime and since as servicemen and civilians.

It's Possible

One official observer of the explosions at Bikini says the atomic bomb has never before discovered a material to shelter men or war plants from it.

He may be right or wrong as to the durability of the material. But it is possible to be—and as to the influence of the atomic bomb in shortening them. But he seems to be something as a man who is willing to name something that science "never" will discover.

Remembering the radio and a dozen other marvels which have been brought to place in the life of this generation, less hardy predictors term their forecasts of scientific progress meaningless, perhaps.

Not to go all on the other tack and say that science certainly will discover an insulator against the atomic bomb, one fact is not to be overlooked.

Which the atomic bomb is composed have existed for a long time together in the laboratory of nature; and the world hasn't been blown to pieces.

"Perhaps" the scientists will find out some day how nature managed to neutralize the destructive forces of these elements—and how to copy the method.

characters in the annals of this country's history.

I don't know how much money
"Twelve-foot" possessed when he died. That doesn't matter, however.
But when I read the inscription on his tombstone I felt terribly humble. It read—

Born Vermont 1850
Died at Slave Lake 1936
"Pathfinder, pioneer, miner and and never locked his cabin door."

The story is that "Twelve-foot" asked, before he died, to be buried in that spot. He and his good friend
"Peace River" Cornwell pitched camp one night in the fall of 1883. As "Twelve-foot," who was then 73 years of age, watched the skilled laborer slowly these facts

The limiting factors which have made it impossible to show substantial increases this year are material shortages, strikes, and general peniculation of the eastern nations. These factors will be examined in later articles.

The report goes on to co-lateral, and the fact that the labor, is the only nation at present producing above her pre-war figures. It is pointed out that the factories are part of the bottleneck in the production of goods.

The Russians, who appeared to approve the scheme during its inception, grew shy of it towards the end of the sub-committee meetings. There is perhaps a surmise that the Russians are not clear that such a council might serve to further some kind of western conspiracy against the Soviet Union.
But so far there has been no active opposition.

Today in Europe
Exclusive to the NEW YORK.—Bernard M. Baruch has just delivered the American plan for controlling atomic energy. It is a plan for a world organization to control the free world and may even produce a more resolute attitude in the Kremlin.

Henry A. Wallace's campaign for appealing Russia by discontinuing the use of the bomb and by the peace-loving nations. And, of course, it encouraged the Russians to suppose that with further pressure, they might entrap the Americans into some such gratuitous and foolhardy gesture.

The firm and taken by Mr.
Baruch, coupled with the fact that President Truman has made it plain that he and his administration are solidly behind the Baruch proposal, should make it clear to the Russians that at one time looked most menacing to the peace of the world. The Russian government has some differences with the United States Government on the subject of atomic energy, but there is no difference of opinion as to the form of control which should be exercised over atomic-energy development.
The British government is giving as solid support to the Baruch proposal as the U.S. government.

The matters in dispute between Britain and the United States are of minor importance and are of minor research and also distributed. It is fairly certain that in 1941, the two countries when, in pool their existing knowledge as to entrap the United States the responsibility for development of the bomb, there was an informal agreement that they should continue to exchange information on atomic energy development. Canada was included in the scope of this agreement. And it was publicly reiterated in November, 1945.

For the last six months, however,
the United States has made no information available either to Canada or to Great Britain. During the last few weeks, the British government has three times drawn the attention of the U.S. government to the terms of the agreement. The British has stated various information. Despite these three

At the time of the fall of France in 1940, the British government of all other countries in atomic research. The leading French scientist, who had fled to England with valuable equipment and placed all of it at the disposal of the British government. The British now believe that there is an understanding between the British and French by which the British must hand on to the French all information they may be able to obtain. The U.S. State department takes the view that any information reaching the French government is automatically bound to be passed on to Moscow.

In these circumstances, it is very easy to understand the American reluctance to impart any information. And it is hard to see how the British government is likely to use such an agreement to the Americans to carry out
their undertaking.

It is true to hope that an effective international plan will be adopted whereby atomic energy can be controlled. The development of the use of the atomic bomb can be excluded. But until such an agreement is achieved, it is far better that as few people as possible should have access to the secrets.

Everybody knows that the United States would never use the bomb except in self-defense or in the case of a direct threat to its security. And it is hard to see how the British government is likely to use such an agreement to the Americans to carry out
their undertaking.

Running from Dawson Creek, B.C., to Fairbanks, Alaska, a distance of 1600 miles, the highway cost $125,000,000. The road is of gravel surface, with gentle grades, none more than four per cent. Built to offset the Jap invasion threat in Alaska and the Aleutians, the three-year-old highway is now maintained by the Royal Canadian Engineers. ## Claim Surgery Only Goitre Cure

By Frank Swanson
LONDON. — In an effort to clear up what they term "some vulgar errors in regard to goitre," three specialists on the subject from the London county council's thyroid clinic at Hamstead New Road hospital in this week's British Medical Journal bluntly declare the only cure for the disease is surgery in the early stages.

The three specialists are cardiologist John Wynter Linnell and surgeons Geoffrey Langdon-Kearns and John Edward Percy, who based their conclusions on the treatment of 1,200 patients who had passed through the clinic since its foundation in 1931.

Say None 'Harmless'
According to the report of the trio, a disorder of the thyroid gland, mainly caused by an iodine deficiency, goitre is often regarded by doctors as of two classes: harmless and toxic, but generally harmless. Many of the "harmless" goitres they dealt with were cancerous.

The first "vulgar error" they debunked was the "harmless goitre." Nearly all goitres, they contend, are toxic or potentially toxic. Some of the signs of a toxic goitre, they state, when the diseased thyroid gland starts shedding poison throughout the whole system, are not quickly distinguishable. Lassitude, slight palpitations, irritability, irregular awakenings, the suspicion of a storm might all mean a goitre is developing.

Iodine Not Cure
Also pooch-pooched as "more of a curse than a blessing" is the belief that iodine cures. "We rarely see a new patient with toxic goitre who has not been taking iodine for years, months or even years," they state. Also debunked as "vulgar errors" are the belief that deep X-rays are a satisfactory alternative to surgery, the contention that drugs have replaced surgery; and that the removal of all but a small part of the thyroid gland is usually uninfacturable and is in fact, such a dangerous operation that it should only be advised as a last resort.

The average mortality rate of a group of 500 patients operated upon for goitre was less than one per cent, the doctors found, and they conclude that virtually all operations had not only to succeed if the goitre is caught in time but to complete recovery on the part of the patient.

Order Clerks to Wash Windows; Dispute Hits Top-Level Ottawa

By H. R. Hardy
OTTAWA.—Should junior clerks in the government service wash windows? This is the rather perplexing question which high officials of the unemployment insurance commission were debating amongst themselves in Ottawa Tuesday. This warm controversial point already has involved Labor Minister Mitchell, Deputy Works Minister Murphy, Fred Knowles, secretary of the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada, and Rev. Daniel McIvor, Liberal member of parliament for Port William.

This matter of window washing came to the fore when Fred White, regional superintendent of the unemployment insurance commission at Winnipeg, ordered junior clerks to wash ground floor windows of the U.I.C. offices from Port William west to Victoria.

"Mr. White believed that in their spare time junior clerks should keep the windows clean as an added service to the public," explained it. T. Gault, director of premises.

But as cleaning windows is a department of work Mr. White had to seek "clearance" from Deputy Works Minister Murphy before the clerks could become part-time window cleaners.

Trend to Right Seen in Belgium

BRUSSELS, (CNA).—The municipal elections to be held in Belgium next month, the first in eight years as well as the first in which women will vote, will unquestionably serve as a political barometer indicating how long the leftist government of Gaston Huguemans will weather the present storm.

Or, for that matter, how long any leftist regime will run the affairs of this nation.

There is increasing talk on all sides of the possibility of a rightist (Catholic) victory in these local elections, scheduled for Nov. 24. Much of it has a startling parallel to some political pronouncements now heard in the United States.

The nation at large is angry over the unending series of strikes, major and minor, the latest of which is that of the singers at La Monnaie, the Brussels opera. The workers are growing more furious every day over the government's refusal to "un-freeze" or decontrol wages. Farmers are aroused over the recent action of the ministry of rationed foods, headed by Edgar Lalmand, a Communist, who in a move against the black market confiscated all carcasses in slaughter-houses.

The prompt sequel was that farmers refused to sell their cattle to the slaughterhouses.

The stop-gap Huguemans government, which numbers four Communists, is also the recipient of bricksbats on the score of the housing shortage, particularly from Belgians living in ruins and cellars in the devastated coastal and other areas. There is the clamorous question for everyone—What has the government done about housing during the long parliamentary vacation?

That the municipal elections next month will show a distinct turn to the right cannot be ruled out, although equally it cannot be regarded as a certainty. If it does take place, a change in the national government would be inevitable. Aside from the aforementioned dissatisfaction with the present regime, political experts point out that the women's vote, particularly in the Flemish provinces will be heavily Catholic, anti-left, and, above all, anti-Communist.

Would Give Data On Uranium Mines

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (CP)—Gen. A. G. McNaughton, Canadian delegate on the atomic energy commission, offered Monday to give the United Nations information on Canada's uranium and thorium mining.

Gen. McNaughton said the Canadian government was ready to help give a picture of the mining of atomic materials in the Dominion. Canada could supply considerable information on the first stage of atomic production because of her uranium and thorium mines.

Earlier the commission's political committee held a closed meeting attended by prominent nuclear physicists who were invited to attend for advice and discussion. It was decided to begin study of the atomic production process at the raw material stage.

Goering Loudest Choir Voice But Not as Death Neared

By Kingsbury Smith
(For Combined American Press)
NURNBERG PALACE OF JUSTICE, (AP)—Hermann Goering was the loudest singer in the tiny prison chapel choir and Rudolf Hess wanted to join in but refrained because he was afraid people might think he "got religion," this confession learned during a unique tour of "death row" in Nuremberg city jail. Mr. Hess to the condemned block of the prison was made Saturday morning while the 11 leading rums

Calgary to Extend Fire Protection

CALGARY, (CP)—A $100,000 program of improvements and extensions to the city's fire protection system, including three new fire halls, in Elbow Park, Crescent Heights, and East Calgary, a new alarm system and three new pieces of apparatus, was approved by city council Tuesday night.

One of the exciting security officers told me that during the days when the Nazi chieftains were still on trial, Goering always looked forward to Sunday morning services and his voice always rose loudest in singing hymns.

After the day he was sentenced to die on the gallows, Goering did not sing.

The voices of those Nazi leaders, whose regime was based on many promises on pagan theories, used to echo sometimes through the prison block. Now and then the echo of religious hymns would bring Hess to his knees and he would be seen standing with a far away look.

On each occasion he remarked to a guard that he would like to join in the singing but that if he did so, people would think he was becoming religious. Hess was sentenced to life imprisonment.

During the early days of his incarceration most of the Nazi prisoners read heavy, classical literature but as time wore on, they turned to lighter reading, especially magazines. When Home Secretary Eric R. Blair was in the prison in 1945, he found a copy of the Illustrated Weekly in the jail, he remarked to Col. Selby S. Little, United States army.

I hope they are at getting interested in to-be-confined serials.

Methodists Gain "Islam Princess"

The divorce of Emir Mohammed Al Rasheed II who claims to be heir to the Turkish throne, and his wife, the former Marjella Whiting, a Marshallian, Iowa, telephone operator (shown in happier days), was announced Tuesday that they will have to get a divorce within their 17-month-old daughter, daughter of the couple. The divorce awarded Princess Parashah custody of the baby, 18 months old, and the prince and the right to sell their daughter Susan instead of Marjella, and raise her as a Methodist, not a Mohammedan. The prince said he was horrified and that the Muslims would be, too. His wife's attorneys limited that he "dreamed his royal connections" while working as a pants presser in a London tailor shop. The prince indignantly denied this.

Dosco Re-Hiring Causing Trouble

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—G. M. Anson, general manager of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, said Tuesday that union insistence on resumption of operations with the pre-trial strike, labor force was making the return-to-work movement a failure. His statement was a reply to a message from C. H. Millard, United Workers' president, asking Dosco to speed re-employment of Dosco workers.

Mr. Millard said it had been understood the strike settlement called for immediate return to work without discrimination of any kind.

Mr. Anson asserted that the movement had been ready to start operations since last Wednesday, not only on condition that the number of men employed shall be no more than is required to carry on the work to be done.

Loran to Assist Coast Shipping

KVQUOT SOUND, Vancouver Island, B.C. (CP)—An aid for shipping on the west coast will be provided shortly by a chain of Loran (long range navigation) stations, the northern terminus of which is being built here on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The Loran station was developed still serving the navy and air force, will stretch from here to Mexico.

A previous mobile Loran station was established here by the United States navy more than a year ago to guide ships to the entrance of the Straits of Juan de Fuca between Vancouver Island and the state of Washington, and provide an all-weather aid to navigation within the strait itself. The new station, being built by Canada, will be manned by the Royal Canadian Navy.

The Loran system was developed at the radiation laboratory of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and underwent its first tests in December, 1941. This radio aid to navigation soon was playing an important part in Allied convoys and anti-submarine operations until at the end of hostilities, about 60,000,000 square miles, three-tenths of the earth's surface, were covered by Loran patterns and the towering masts of the Loran stations were visible in appearance in Canada, United States, parts of Europe, Africa and the bay of Bengal. In the Pacific, mobile units advanced with the Allied fleets toward the Japanese coast.

Loran utilizes accurate measurements of the time difference between the arrival of two short radio signals transmitted by a pair of widely-separated stations.

During day-time, Loran ground waves signals are received over water for distances up to 400 nautical miles, while the sky waves give night coverage to about 1,500 nautical miles. At these ranges the lines of position give an accuracy to about three miles.

Within range of Loran stations navigation can rapidly be made independently of storm or cloud. Loran is being adapted to pressure use in some of the larger merchant vessels, on many of the passenger liners, and as an aid to aircraft on trans-oceanic flights.

Says Clubs Are Unselfish in Work

RED DEER.—Special banquet was held in the Elks hall Wednesday by the Red Deer Lions club to celebrate the eighth anniversary of Lions in Red Deer. Walter Fisher, third vice-president of Lions International, was guest speaker.

Mr. Fisher pointed out that it was not for the service clubs and their unselfish work for the benefit of the community in which they serve. A glowing outlook would exist throughout the world today, service clubs being for the benefit of the community and a live club was often an indication that the town in which it operated was an up and coming community.

Guests were present from Calgary, Edmonton, Lacrosse, Bluebird, Invermay, Okla., Medicine Hat, and Rimbey, making a total attendance of 250. Hugh Taylor, of Red Deer, was chairman, and Mr. Fisher was introduced by Gordon Sherman.

"You mean get paid in Coconuts!.."

BILL is not running a fever. He is merely trying to explain to the new mechanic that 35 cents out of each dollar in his pay envelope is put there by Canadian trade abroad.

"Those parts you are making go into all kinds of machines, from refrigerator pumps to marine engines," says Bill, "and the countries that buy them must sell us different things in return, or they would run out of dollars to pay for our work."

"Let's get this thing straight," says Bill's new friend. "You mean that 35 cents on each dollar I get comes from things like coconuts and bananas?"

"Yes... and from coffee and sweet potatoes, sugar and cotton... and spices and tea."

"What a more than a pay for rent... what would happen if these foreign guys stopped buying my machine parts?"

"That's something that must never happen," said Bill thoughtfully. "That's why I'm so fussy about the quality of the parts we turn out. Ours must be so much better that foreign buyers will prefer Canadian products because they are dependable and made to high standards. That's the way we'll build our foreign trade."

"But we can sell the parts we make at home. Why bother with the coconut fellow?"

"That's the tricky part of it. We must make foreign markets for Canadian goods now... or we won't keep the production lines moving after the people here at home have bought all they need."

And this is where YOU come in, friend reader. At least 35 cents of every dollar you earn comes from Canada's foreign trade, too. So if you want to do well by your future—be patient when some of the goods you want are sold to other countries.

And remember, too, that everything you produce is a knock or a boost for Canadian goods in foreign markets... so put your heart into your job.

Bachelor Girls Get Together in Vancouver

Seven bachelor girls and their house mother in Vancouver have found that living together in a "co-op" home can be happy and cheap. The girls who come from various sections of the west have one stove, one kitchen sink, two bathtubs and one living room in the house. The house-mother prepares a hot meal in the evening, does the shopping, but girls take 'turns' at the housework. Bar's Son to Get Treasure at Coast

VANCOUVER, (CP)—The mysterious disappearance of Henri Bar, French millionaire banker from Shanghai, is back in the news but this may be the last time—unless the supposed "curse of the Pain cups" appears again.
 His son, Claude, has come to Vancouver from France to claim the $500,000 treasure which the elder Bar shipped from Shanghai and which includes the cups, said to have been stolen from the Peking palace in the early 1900's during the fall of a Chinese dynasty and to which some attribute a curse.
 Henri Bar disappeared from the British freighter Samwater while en route from Shanghai to Vancouver last spring. At the time ship's officers believed he had fallen overboard in heavy seas but examined a board the Samwater muttered darkly about the June supposedly caused by the agile cups in Bar's bag.
 Reports at the time of the elder Bar's disappearance said he carried three jade necklaces around his neck. This theory was exploded when his son said that there had been no such article in his father's collection. The son said that he had been with his father when the elder man had collected the fortune.
 Of the "curse" on the cups, Claude just laughed and said that he and his pretty wife of three months aren't worried.
 Mr. and Mrs. Bar plan to return to France or settle down in America—with the supposedly "curse" treasure.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED
The preparation of the baby's formula is a simple matter if one possesses all the utensils for it and keeps them handy in one spot. It's a nice job for the young father to do at night and he is sure to be tidy and meticulous about it. Get a large porcelain or glass pitcher, and keep it for formula mixing. If the porcelain one has the ounces marked inside, so much the better. If not, use a glass beaker measuring eight ounces. Boil the water for the formula. Measure this and put it in the pitcher, add the sugar and stir well. Then add the evaporated or dried milk, stir, divide into individual bottles, stopper and store in the refrigerator. If the milk is to be boiled then do so another way. Put together the milk and sugar and bring them to a boil on top of the stove. Boil for three minutes, stirring constantly. Strain and put into bottles and cool and store in a cold place. Cooling means that the bottles should be placed under cold running water and kept there until the milk is cold. Each ingredient is to be measured in English.

OUT OUR WAY

Dorothy Dix Says —

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a widow with five children and am in love with a boy who is ten years younger than I am. He says that he loves me, but he goes out with young girls and never makes any money. I am likely to meet any of his family or friends. Although he spends all his weekends with me, he never contributes a cent to buying any food, and when I am in need of money he tells me that he hasn't any, that he needs what he has for himself. Please give my advice.

Answer: Well, my earnest advice to you is to lose no time in having your head examined, for something in your mental machinery must have gone badly wrong to make you waste time and thought of a young hound who evidently bodes you no good, as the old melodramas used to say.

UNLESS you are a perfect moron, you must know that the chances of a widow with five children marrying are practically nothing. Because there probably isn't a man in the world who wants to take on that big a ready-made family and to have to support it. So can you see that it is up to you to quit thinking about love and romance and marriage with young boys, and put your shoulder to the wheel and busy trying to make a decent living for your children and give them a fair start in the world?

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband and I are planning on going on our honeymoon, as we didn't have a chance to take one when we were married. But he's found a 27-month-old baby and my husband thinks that we leave him with his mother until we get back, and I am determined to take him with us. I am sure we won't enjoy my trip without him. Besides, he is a very special and has autism. I don't think my mother-in-law would put up with him.

We will do whatever you say.

Answer: Well, I say—have a heart. Show some consideration for your husband and also for all the innocent bystanders on the train by leaving your baby at home. Otherwise you will cast the oncoming train for your husband, and lessen the chances of his sneaking off at some way station and go AWOL.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I lost my husband two and a half months ago. When is the proper time for me to get on in the company of my friends?

Answer: There is no set time for a widow to try her life again and summer back the comb-behavior. It is a matter of the heart. It is rushing matters to the "keeping company," as the bobby-soxers say, under three months.
